PHI DELTS TO HOLD ANNUAL OFFICERS' CONFERENCE HERE

Officials of Fraternity Will Meet in Appleton July 24, 25 and 26

Phi Delta Theta, national college fraternity, will hold its annual officers' conference in Appleton July 24, 25 and 26. It has been announced. Appleton was selected because of its central location, and because the weather is more likely to be cool here than at a point farther south, according to George R. Banta, Jr., Menasha, a member of the general council.

The conference will bring together its general council of five members, its province presidents of 16 members, its survey commission of five, two sets of endowment trustees of three each, its executive secretary and his assistant, and about six advisors.

The president of the general council is Dr. John T. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education. Other members are Henry Wilson, a lawyer of Chicago; Harry H. Davis, a lawyer of Toronto; Robert H. Haas of Allentown, a member of the Pennsylvania state legislature, and George Banta, Jr., of Menasha. Arthur R. Priest, the executive secretary who devotes his entire time to the fraternity's affairs, was formerly dean of the University of Washington. Dean E. E. Ruby of Whitman college and Professor Carl Doten of Massachusetts Institute of Technology are members of the survey commission; and B. V. Moore, vice governor of the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank and W. H. Bremner, president of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad are among the province presidents.

The headquarters of the conference will be at Conway hotel. Meetings will be held each day and one evening will be given over to a dinner. Automobile drives and golf will provide relaxation for the visitors between sessions.

Local members of Phi Delta Theta are Prof. R. M. Bagg of the Amherst chapter; Mark S. Catlin of the Chicago chapter and his son John, who is a freshman at Wisconsin; Dr. G. W. Carlson of the South Dakota chapter; E. H. Wright of the Ohio Wesleyan chapter and George W. Thom of the Wisconsin chapter.

Phi Delta Theta had a chapter at Lawrence from 1858 to 1890, but it died as a result of faculty opposition and because of the approaching war. All efforts to revive it have failed.

Now ESTERS Put the Flavor Back!

Old Heidelberg

Before the great discovery of ester-aging, the flavor quickly disappeared in the process of removing the alcohol. Now Blatz captures the flavor by separating the esters from the beverage. After it is cooled, the highly volatile esters are put back. Thus, today, you are given the old-time flavor—a distinctive Old Heidelberg feature. Order by the case.

But with all the electrical appliances, mentioned and unmentioned, the field was not completely covered until the advent of electric refrigeration—the greater boon to the household of them all. SPORTS NEWS OF NEENAH AND MENASHA SOCIETY

NEXT WAR WILL BE WORST IN HISTORY, PASTOR PREDICTS

People Will Have to Cope With Diseases and Other Horrors, He Reminds

Menasha—If there ever is another war, it is going to be far more terrible than any experienced in the world so far, Rev. George A. Clifford predicted Monday afternoon in a Memorial day address at Oak Hill cemetery.

"The mind of men," he said, "is certainly very deep when it comes to destruction. During the late war we saw the invention of poisonous gas which was suddenly sprung upon the enemy. Any future war will not be fought on the battle field or between battle ships on the ocean. It will be fought in every community with germs of disease cast down from airplanes.

"We never can over estimate the importance of Memorial day. It brings back memories of valor and sacrifices performed by those who would preserve and continue this republic. And year after year as we celebrate Memorial day we are filled more with sadness than any other feeling because of the thinning ranks of the men of the Grand Army of the Republic. We see them falling away one by one until very few are left in any community of the United States. But before those who are still living have departed this life we shall assure them that after they have gone home to their heavenly Father we will not forget them or those who lived before them but will continue to keep their graves green and strewn with flowers and we will keep their memories fresh at all times and hand down to posterity the deeds which they performed in order that we might now enjoy the blessings of liberty and share the favors that God has showered upon us in this beautiful country of ours.

STARTED AFTER CIVIL WAR

"Originally this day was set aside to endure the memory of those who fought in the Civil War, to preserve this country of ours. Now Memorial day has come to be known as a day of universal patriotism, a day on which we commemorate the deeds of valor that were performed by those who took part in the later wars of the country. And we call to mind the sacrifices made by those who fought in the Spanish-American war and in the late world war, and we remember the experience that followed when we so young boys leave home to sever family ties, getting mother's benediction, going off to a foreign country to fight that our rights might be respected by other nations of the world. I am sure that if this generation could live forever and if there were no other generation to follow we would never have another war. John Sherman was right when he said war is hell.

"I am not a pacifist, my dear friends, and all of you who knew me during the great World War and heard me on public occasions would never for a moment accuse me of pacifism. And hence I believe it is the duty of us as citizens of this great republic to do all in our power to promote peace.

"We have made wonderful progress from the time of the civil war; we have seen material progress in every line; we have seen the perfection of steam; we have seen the progress made in electricity and in the use of steam; we have seen the progress made in transportation through the advance of the automobile; we have seen the progress that has been made through the invention of the radio.

"I believe there is no one-half century or three-fourths of a century in the history of the world in which such progress has been made as in the last 50 or 75 years. It seems while we have progressed in a material way we have retrogressed in other ways, and who would have believed 25 years ago that with all our vaunted civilization most of the nations of the world, the civilized nations, would be at each others' throats strangling each other, or killing each other, and for what purpose?

JEALOUSY CAUSED CONFLICT

"My dear friends, a little jealousy between nations started it. Commercialism was at the bottom of the late war and selfishness on the part of the other nations drew us into the universal war. It seems to me that if we can have arbitration after the war is over we can also have arbitration before the war begins. Why wait until thousands and millions of lives have been sacrificed to get together around a table and come to terms? Therefore I say it is our duty now to work for the intervention of peace in the future and prevent a recurrence of that awful slaughter that took place in the world war some years ago.

"It seems to me this country is more or less backward in preparing for war. Not that I wish this country to go to war, but I believe on the ocean of former President Theodore Roosevelt, 'Speak softly but carry a big stick and be ready for the emergency.' I believe nine years ago that our country was more or less unprepared to take part in war and it required a lot of effort on the part of the government to get things lined up to carry on the war.

"I believe it should not happen again and as the future wars shall be fought in the air we should have the necessary airplanes to cope with any other country. This country is proud of the fact that the Atlantic ocean was crossed for the first time in an airplane by a citizen of the United States, Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, to whom all honor is due. He paved the way. He has shown us how it can be done and now that it has been done it will be crossed hundreds and thousands and millions of times. The speaker closed his address by calling attention to internal dangers that threaten our government.

The program included a selection by the band; invocation by the Rev. A. Gordon Fowler; song, American selections by male quartet; Gen. John A. Logan's Memorial day order, John

It came within 20 feet of the tent and would have crushed one of their automobiles had it not been moved a few moments before. The supper was hastily dispensed with and another campsite selected. ROUNDERS DOWN AGES BY COUNT OF 6 TO 2

Menasha—Menasha Rounders won another game Monday at Appleton, defeating the Aces 6 to 2. The game was close until the eighth inning when a barrage of hits sent three runners across home plate. Stipanski for Menasha and Kransusch and Sumnich for Appleton.

Voices

THE day is full of voices—meaningless, insistent. They drone upon the street, chatter at parties, hurl snatches of themselves at you from passing automobiles, rise up and down dramatically from open-air platform, end with question marks at the office, trail after you on street cars. . . . Your ears, forever open, almost have to hear.

YET in this same room with you are voices of utmost silence, whose every word concerns you. You control them more surely than you control telephone or radio. Open a page—they talk to you quietly. Close a page—they are through. They are the voices of the advertisements. They talk direct to you. Tell of better roofing for your home, more protective paint for its walls. Shoes your youngsters can't scuffle out easily. Salads, delicious drinks, to gratify you. Reinforced hosiery, cooler underwear, purer soaps. You believe in these voices, for they have to be sincere. Else they would not be in these pages—could not have the nation's belief. You buy the goods they proffer, for you know already what those goods do. And wide belief has lowered their prices. They are economical—sure!

LOOSE products everywhere in stores are crying out, "Buy me!" But behind the voice of the advertised product is the voice of authority. The voice that tells the why, what, when, where and how of the goods you buy.

Heed these courteous voices often. Read the advertisements every day

GOOD CROP OUTLOOK DESPITE POOR WEATHER CONDITIONS

WISCONSIN REPORT INDICATES HIGHER PRICES FOR FARMER

Heavy Rains and Cold Waves Delay Planting in Nearly All Sections

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

In its report for May, the Wisconsin Crop and Livestock Reporter declares that spring work is delayed but crops look good, that prices, the past six months have been well above the last two winters, that a high new point was reached in Wisconsin marketing to packers and stockyards in 1926, that consumption has again increased that brood sows show an increase that there are large acreages of all important crops except oats, that farm labor is slightly higher than a year ago and that there is a movement away from farms.

"Heavy rains and cold waves," says the report, "delayed planting and farm work in nearly all parts of Wisconsin and provided a setback for what looked like an early spring. This situation is reported as being general throughout the central and western states."

"In Wisconsin, winter wheat, rye, clover, and alfalfa came through the winter with little damage. The wet spring has been favorable to these crops and they are entering the growing season with good prospects. Seedlings of clover and alfalfa, while some winter killing is reported, are generally in good condition. The condition of the clovers is estimated at $8 per cent of normal and alfalfa $2 per cent. All tame hay in Wisconsin shows a condition of $8 per cent of normal."

LARGER WHEAT ACREAGE
"It is expected that the acreage of the winter wheat average planted last fall will be harvested—a total 67,000 acres for the state as compared with 65,000 in 1926."

"Rye this year is in better condition than a year ago, it being $9 per cent of normal on May 1. The Wisconsin acreage is estimated at 243,000 as compared with 256,000 in 1926."

"Pastures are benefiting by the wet weather, and while they are still short, they are greening up nicely. Wisconsin farmers report the condition of their pastures at $9 per cent of normal as compared with $7 per cent for the United States as a whole."

"The shipments of cattle from Wisconsin to packers and stockyards in 1926 greatly exceeded those of the previous years and were above the previous high point in 1920. In 1926, 331,000 cattle were shipped; in 1925, 338,000 and in 1926, 405,000. The program of tuberculosis eradication which was pushed rapidly in the state last year may have had something to do with the heavy marketings which occurred in 1926. The number of cattle shipped to stockyards as a result of the testing were added to the regular run of market cattle."

MILK PRICES HIGHER

"The past six months, which made up the winter feeding season have been favorable for the Wisconsin dairymen. Milk prices have been well above the last two winters and feed prices have been moderate."

"With this favorable spread existing between the milk prices and the prices of feed, the production of milk was appreciably more profitable than it has been for several years. The April, 1927, price of $2.05 per hundred pounds was higher than the average price for any April since 1920. "During the past six months, farm milk prices for the state have been well above the two preceding winters. On an average, the price for the last half year was 14 cents per hundred pounds above a year ago and over 30 cents above the price of two years ago."

"Continued increase in the per capita consumption of milk and cream in the United States is reported by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, which places the per capita consumption at 55.3 gallons against 54.75 gallons in 1925 and 43 gallons in 1920. Practically all the large cities show an increased consumption of milk and cream."

UNSETTLED BUTTER MARKET
"Again this month, the striking features of the current dairy situation are to be found in the butter market. Not for some time have conditions been so unsettled and the immediate price trend so uncertain. While in March there was a steady drop in butter prices, followed later by steady advances, the month of April has been a series of ups and downs, although at a higher level and within a narrower range. The lowest point touched at New York during April was 50 cents and the highest 54 cents, but hardly a day has passed without a price change somewhere within this 4-cent range. "Coming to the influence which account for the situation, the first condition observed in the markets is the extreme shortage of butter. Storage stocks are down to a point where they are of no consequence whatever. The amount in storage in the four principal markets is about one day's railroad receipts. Total stocks in the United States are the lowest on record, so that, from the standpoint of supply, stocks in storage may as well be forgotten during the balance of the season. The quantities of butter carried by dealers in current trading markets is likewise low, about two-thirds only of what was on hand a year ago. Production is lagging alone. The estimate for March shows a very slight increase over last year, less than 1 per cent, but with heavy demands from everywhere there is no surplus and as a result the receipts at the principal markets to which surplus butter is usually shipped are over 2 per cent less since Jan. 1 than last year. These lighter receipts together with reduced stocks will help explain why the markets have been so sensitive."

LITTLE FOREIGN BUTTER

"Late reports indicate that but little more foreign butter is expected. Up until now supplies from this source have served somewhat to relieve the domestic shortage. Total butter imports for the first three months of the year amounted to 2,572,000 pounds, compared with 2,565,000 during the same period in 1926."

W. J. Hurst Is Pioneer Brown-Swiss Purebred Breeders In Outagamie-co

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Seymour—One of the pioneer breeders of purebred Brown-Swiss dairy cattle in Outagamie-co is William J. Hurst, route 4, proprietor of The Pines and Swiss Valhalla farms. Even with that record, Mr. Hurst up to 1917 had nothing better than mixed grades on his farm and had not seen a Brown Swiss animal. He was not satisfied, however, with the appearance of his herd of grades, the feed bill and the production of his cows. To increase the profits of dairying, he began reading production records of purebred herds and reports of what Brown Swiss were doing in production lines on the farms of the department of agriculture, University of Wisconsin. Then he decided to set out on a tour of herd inspection.

On this tour, started in 1917, Mr. Hurst visited only a few of the better herds and took all the time with each herd necessary to make a thorough inspection and to arrive at a reliable conclusion. In each case, he examined the animals, listened to comments of the owner, consulted breeding and production records and records above the cost of the feed. But beside this he saw the cows fed and noted the kind and quantity of feed. He saw the cows milked and noticed the amount and quality of the milk of each cow. He followed the milk to the point of delivery and saw it weighed and tested and studied the yearly production record of the herd. Mr. Hurst made this elaborate study of herds to guard against possible error in the choice of a breed for his own use.

MADE CAREFUL STUDY

In this manner, Mr. Hurst made a careful study of the Brown Swiss herd of Charles Kuetler, Keshish, and that of Lovejoy and Loeffler, Fairwater. When he was through, Mr. Hurst bought two yearling heifers of Charles Kuetler and one heifer of Lovejoy and Loeffler.

In 1918, Mr. Hurst bought four more animals from Lovejoy and Loeffler and three head from Mr. Kuetler. The latter animals are the foundation of Mr. Hurst's present herd.

One of these foundation animals is Fairwater. This cow has a daughter, Pansy Fairwater, that has made better than 16,500 pounds of milk and 730 pounds of butter and there was no day during the making of the record, that her milk fell below forty pounds.

Brown May K. one of these foundation cows, produced 55 pounds of milk daily as a two year old and her test was 44.

The first outstanding herd sire owned by Mr. Hurst was Doriston, from the Valhalla Farms, Middleberg, N. Y. On these farms, he was the sire in a herd of 200 head. Doriston was sired by Octavius. This latter animal carried the blood of Tom Phyllis, the greatest Brown Swiss bull of his day.

Mr. Hurst's present herd sire is Betty's Egar of Seymour, purchased of Frank Steff, Tilleda, Wisconsin, proprietor of the Pence Farm. This bull was sired by Edgar and the latter belongs to an 800 pound strain of Brown Swiss cattle. Betty's Egar of Seymour was shown at eight fairs last fall and came out an undefeated animal.

HAS 11 PUREBREDS

In Mr. Hurst's herd are 11 purebred cows, 5 purchased heifers and the herd sire make up a uniform herd in size, color and production. The factory returns of this Mr. Hurst does not hesitate to show and compare, cow age with the returns of any other herd in his vicinity. Said his herd tested at 3 per cent.

In 1926 Mr. Hurst sold nine bull but could not meet the demand for heifers. Every year since he started raising Brown Swiss cattle except two, Mr. Hurst has been showing his herd at the Seymour fair. Beauty of Valhalla and Don of Swiss Valhalla are two of his most showy animals.

Last fall in competition with 72 head of Brown Swiss cattle at the Seymour fair, Mr. Hurst was awarded first premiums, five second premiums. In 1925, he showed ten animals and drew 10 first premiums and 2 seconds.

Condensed milk production offers an interesting contrast. Condensed milk has a very substantial gain in March, resulting in a net increase for the calendar year of approximately 4 per cent over 1926. Cheese production still continues to run 8 to 10 per cent below last year. Condensed milk prices are the lowest on record of any year since only half of the April 1 five year average.

INCREASE IN BROOD SOWS

"Wisconsin farmers report slight increases in the number of brood sows in nearly all sections on May 1. Favorable feed prices and moderate prices have brought an increase in pork production in spite of the fact that the 1926 crop of ripe corn was small. With an increase in brood sows there probably will be an increase in the supply of hogs later provided conditions are favorable and a good percentage of pigs are saved at weaning time."

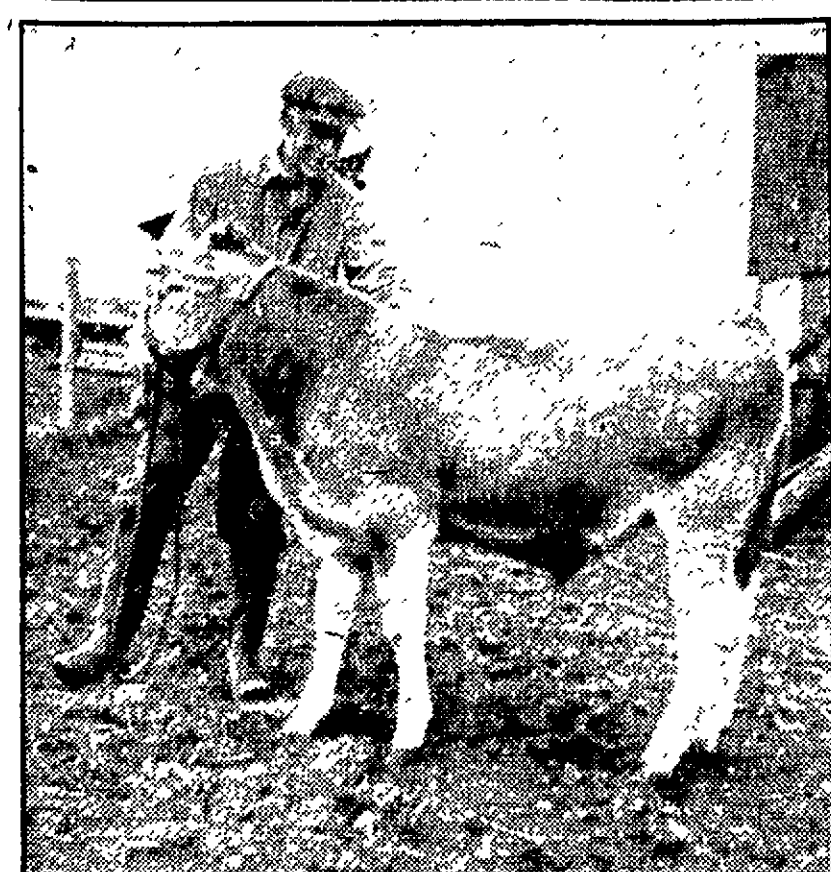

"According to reports received from Wisconsin farmers in April, farm wages are slightly higher this year than last year. Hired farm labor for the month with board is reported as costing on the average of $47.50 this year as compared with $45.75 last year. Labor without board by the month is reported as costing $62.50 this year as compared with $60 last year. Farm workers by the day with board receive $2.25 this year which is exactly the same as last year."

"A recent estimate of the bureau of agricultural economics indicates a decrease in the farm population of the United States of 612,000 persons last year, which is the greatest decrease in any year since 1920."

BUTTER TRADING IS FAIRLY ACTIVE

Cheese Purchases Fill Immediate Needs; Hog and Sheep Prices Drop

Madison—(P)—Trading in the butter in Wisconsin during the last week fluctuated between slow and fairly active, the state department of markets says in its weekly review of market conditions.

The review shows cheese purchases were made only for immediate needs, hog prices dropped and sheep prices were forced down. It says of butter: "Prices generally remained stationary except for a fractional advance on top scores in the middle of the week under review. Receipts were fairly liberal and supplies ample to the demand except on the lower grades, which were in very light supply. Much of the butter arriving was high cost butter which was stored for the most part. At the close of the week trading was active and a fractional advance took place. Centralized car market trading was low throughout the week but butter which was stored for the most part was sold at this time."

The other markets were reviewed as follows:

CHEESE SLIGHTLY HIGHER

"Cheese trading was confined to purchases for immediate needs. Receipts have been fairly liberal and were not clearing readily. Production has shown a considerable increase during the past three weeks and advances indicate a continued seasonal increase in the supply of feeding lambs. Cheese prices are 3 cents higher than last year at this time."

"As a result of an oversupply of hogs prices dropped 50 to 60 cents from the past week's level. Although shippers purchased more hogs during the week their influence was not sufficient to strengthen on the last day of the week under review. Hog prices are about $1.50 lower than last year at this time. The total supply of hogs at eleven large markets still shows a slight decrease as compared with the corresponding period of a year ago but there has been a marked increase in receipts May 1927, as compared with 1926."

"Increased receipts and a weakened demand trade caused a decline in prices ranging from 25 to 50 cents. An increase in the supply of feeding lambs during the week forced prices down, the decline ranging from 50 to 75 cents as compared with the previous week. Sheep prices are about $2.50 lower than a year ago at this time."

Farm work in the vicinity of Shiocton has been delayed considerably by the recent hard rains. Many fields are under water.

ALGOMA SCHOOL IS BEST IN WISCONSIN FOR PROJECT WORK

More Widely Engaged in Activities than Any Other in Rural Sections

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Algoma—According to the report of the state vocational agricultural department, the department of agriculture of the local high school, organized under the Smith-Hughes plan, does more project work than any other school in any rural section of the state. Rolfe Nygaard, who spends his afternoons, nights and Saturdays in organizing 4-H clubs and demonstrating the work, has charge of the project work of pupils of the schools and that of the 4-H clubs in the townships of a considerable area about Algoma.

Project work for the boys and girls of the agricultural department is compulsory, as might be expected in a school of the kind, but with outside boys and girls membership in 4-H clubs is optional. The pupils get school credits for project work and the club boys and girls get premiums from various sources and the profits of their work.

THIRTY 4-H CLUBS

In the townships of Lincoln and Ahnapee, Mr. Nygaard has organized ten 4-H clubs this spring. In Kewaunee-co, outside of these two townships, twenty 4-H clubs have been organized. Sixty pupils, 123 members of 4-H clubs in the townships mentioned and 253 4-H club members in other sections of Kewaunee-co are doing project work in the county.

The boys in the agricultural school and in the 4-H clubs have made selections of projects from the regular lists but many of the girls have selected poultry, gardening, fruits and calves for their projects.

The boys and girls of the club and school exhibit their project work in competition each season at the Luthersville Fair. The fair offers premiums for such work and provides entertainment for the boys and girls. H. R. LaFrope, agricultural agent had charge of the boys and woman club leader had charge of the girls last fall.

Mr. Luthersville sent 25 winners of the last state fair including three pupils of the school.

Each fall, the local high sends a judging team to the college of agriculture, Madison, to judge horses, pigs, cattle, poultry and so forth, in statewide competition, and will put on a regular school fair this fall.

WEATHER DELAYS POTATO PLANTING IN WAUPACA-CO

Waupaca—Farmers in this vicinity have been held up in the planting of corn and potatoes by the cold wet weather but the work is progressing rapidly now and will soon be completed. Except in low spots alfalfa, clover, grasses and small grain show up well and all that is needed now to insure good growths is favorable weather.

DETECT NEW METHOD TO

DETECT WATER IN MILK

Chicago—(P)—Detection of added water in milk is easier by new methods of chemical analysis announced in a paper presented Saturday at the Midwest Regional meeting of the American Chemical society by Prof. J. A. Schuetz and Miss Lila Miller, University of Wisconsin chemists.

The new method is a variation of the standard refractometric analysis now generally used to detect "watered" milk. It differs from former methods only in the use of a new chemical reagent—mercuric nitrate—to precipitate the curd from the milk and leave the serum. Reagents formerly used, such as copper sulphate, either colored the serum or left it in a turbid state which made analysis difficult. Mercuric nitrate leaves a clear, colorless serum.

The laboratory technician using mercuric nitrate to obtain milk serum for analysis has less difficulty in taking the refractometric reading which indicates whether or not water has been added to the milk, the Badger chemists explained. Mercuric nitrate is among the reagents used in other dairy laboratory operations, so that its use does not involve adding more chemicals to laboratory stocks.

Surgeon Bay—The frequent rains this spring have made the spraying of cherry and apple trees a real job. Almost as soon as a spray is applied to the trees it is washed off and the work has to be repeated.

EVERYBODY LOVES

Clear, White Skin

You might fail to notice most anything else, but never the woman who keeps herself irresistible by preserving her skin's rosy clearness, free from even the faintest speck of discoloration. Her presence is felt instantly wherever she goes.

This charm is not impossible for you. Most of the women you admire so for their youthful complexion will tell you it is easy to keep your skin clear and as soft as the petals of a rose.

Just squeeze the juice of two lemons into a three-ounce bottle of Orchard White and massage this strangely fragrant lotion into your skin. It is marvelous how quickly it clears away all freckles, tan and discolorations. It is simple and so inexpensive. Two lemons, and a bottle of Orchard White which you can get from any dealer.

The instep may be low, while the ball is of a thin and sprightly nature, necessitating a last with a broad tread and shallow upper.

Lasts vary and have special fitting features peculiar to themselves. It is up to the fitter to know his lasts and make the right selection for this particular case.

Novelty salespeople have studied feet; they know how to fit shoes so that you may enjoy complete comfort and resulting better general health.

CHEER SICK PERSONS WITH USEFUL GIFTS

EVERYBODY sends sick folks flowers or fruit. Why not be different? For flowers fade quickly in hospital atmosphere. And fruit often cannot be eaten. Try other gifts that may be more acceptable and bring greater pleasure.

First of all, there is the daily, interesting, picture post card that may be mailed the patient. Their arrival will break the day and they will be much pleasanter than a long letter of condolence.

If visiting, take a bottle of cologne. It soothes a fevered head and brings relief from the heat of the pillow. Or take a small baby's pillow that will fit into the small of the back, or under the head and make for comfort.

Convenience that bring a note of color while they serve should receive consideration. These include a colored glass for water, with a pretty painted saucer and matching cover; bright colored handkerchiefs that show up easily when laid amid white sheets; inexpensive, colored vases; a easily decorated bowl for fruit; a package toilet soap or an orange, green or red wash rag.

When the patient is better there is the little bookmark—a grotesque figured one that will amuse; an inexpensive writing case with notepaper, or a dozen postcards, stamped.

For women there are innumerable pretties. A bed-jacket, a bright wristband to hold the handkerchief; a coverlet or shoulder throw of knitted, warm wool; mules and Kimonos, any favorite toilet article.

Besides clocks, easy chairs, pretty lamps, pictures that rest the eyes and hundreds of other luxuries are acceptable to the convalescent. But lack of funds need not keep the willing friend from delighting the sick. For with a little thought and very little money, quantities of attractive and welcome articles can be found.

Dame Fashion Presides When Debs Meet All Sorts Of Materials Found At Confab

THE mode, as interpreted by the New York debutantes who set style, becomes more insistently feminine each day. At a recent committee meeting to arrange for a benefit entertainment, there was a ponderance of frocks of the soft, clinging variety. A homespun tweed suit took a frilled jabot waist in becoming flesh shade, a tailored blue silk coat dress had its underfrock of pleated chiffon, supple satin fashioned two frocks and several of the new figured foulards reflected the latest feminine style touches. Also there were lace yokes, collarless necklines and full sleeves gathered into cuffs tied in bows. The committee, left to right: Mrs. Leger, Mary Sheppard, Ellen Conby, Cordelia Curnee, Faustina Munroe, Constance Dane, Jennie Arnold, June Iles and Grace Tugue.

SNIFFLING DOESN'T WORK THESE DAYS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS GAITON

AUNTIE was a sniffer. She was a good soul and the family could not have gotten along without her—there wasn't a doubt of it.

She knew they couldn't and they knew they couldn't and there wasn't any reason in the world why she shouldn't have been a much-loved and much-respected member of the household.

But she wasn't. Young people are cruel. They don't mean to be, but they are. They love a goat and auntie was it. There were usually tears in auntie's eyes, her nose usually looked red and moist, and at meal time her handkerchief lay a little damp ball under the napkin on her lap.

Mother did all she could to take her sister's part. For Father, too, was somewhat of a joker. He'd send up Auntie's plate with the neck of the chicken, or the tough end of the steak, just to see what she would say.

Auntie would say nothing, sniffle, dab at her nose with her moist handkerchief and tackle the feast in injured silence.

"For goodness sake, Lib, here's a decent piece! Send that back," Father would say roughly, and up would go her plate again.

And then one sweet sunny day in June when the roses were out and things smelled nice and everything and the joking and sniffing were also in full bloom, a most amazing thing happened.

Aunt Lib was just about to blow her nose again, but instead her chair shot back, she shot up, and shouted "Go to the door!"

Charlie went over to a corner and had a fit. Joan fainted. Betty wet her napkin, lay back and plastered it over her face, and Rudy yelled "Police!"

Mother was delighted. Father was not there but he was informed of the revolution by phone.

Mother's kind words are more than coronets, and noble deeds than Norman blood. But a good (hardon) wallop on the nose is worth more than a thousand tears.

We ladies can't cry our way through the world any more. We got to fight or maybe get profane. But we have to make it some way.

Aunt Lib had just been speaking the wrong language to a new generation. There was no more sniffing and no more need. She had their respect at last.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

But Faith did not go to court the next day. Churchill himself came to forbid her appearance that day, arrived before nine, while Faith was weakly resisting Aunt Hattie's efforts to keep her in bed.

And so, funning and fretful, Faith stayed in bed another day, while Aunt Hattie cooked and sweetened and brewed hot lemonade and rubbed the protesting girl's chest with villainous mixtures of herbs, turpentine and lard, and gave short, peppy interviews to the indefatigable reporters.

"Reckon she ain't gonna die, though the Lord knows this pickin' on an innocent child and hauling her into court and trying her for murder when she's never hurt a fly in her life is enough to kill us all," Aunt Hattie snapped at the reporters. "Now, clear out, all of you! I got my work to do and an invalid on my hands."

"You know, Bob," Faith told her sweetheart when he came that evening, "the most terrible thing about it is the fact that we're all getting used to it—to first page notoriety, to our pictures all over the papers, to seeing Cherry's name in headlines. I wonder how soon that the disgrace would have killed us all, but we're all alive, except poor mother, and Dad is even a little bit proud, though it would break his heart if he heard me say so. Now tell me about today. Dad's paper didn't have any very exciting headlines."

"You small stuff," Bob told her, as he drew his chair close to the bed and reached for her hands. "Old Preston, the insurance man that Cherry worked for before she went into Uncle Ralph's testified that Cherry was a nice girl, that she didn't try to gold-dig him and that she quit of her own accord. Pretty decent of him, considering the fact that she quit after he had slapped his face for trying to kiss her."

"Oh, it was sweet of him!" Faith cried her eyes misting with tears. "Who else testified?"

"A couple of detectives told of seeing automobile tire tracks in the fresh snow, in the alley when they were searching for the murder. One set of tracks they swore, turned west, just beyond the end of the driveway and headed back up the alley—west, you know, the way the car had come. That corroborates Sanders' testimony about the taxi cab, your fiancé, Mr. Robert Lee Hathaway got in his full and complete story of the mysterious footprints."

"Oh, Bob! And I missed it!" Faith mourned, laying her hand against her cheek.

"Did you do it?" Bob chuckled. "Old Ranning got my hat when your fiancé and I almost came to blows. But Churchill managed to get my measurements of the funny footprints before the jury as exhibit B, for the defense."

"What did you and Ranning row about?" Faith asked.

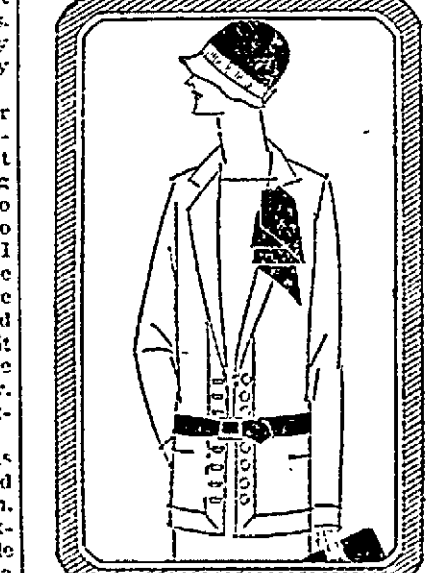

"Oh, he tried to convince me that I might have killed Uncle Ralph myself—silly old fellow, you know, because I'd once been engaged to Cherry. Pretty raw, but I suppose all's fair in our so-called courts of justice. Churchill got my version of the Saturday night party at the Marlboro Country Club, to offset Aunt Alice's damaging testimony against Cherry. And—I lied Faith. That's why I said I'm glad you weren't there."

SANDWICH IS CHIEF ITEM OF PICNIC LUNCH

BY SISTER MARY

WITH the picnic season upon us perhaps a few sandwich suggestions will not be amiss. The right sort of sandwiches and fruit can be made to serve as an adequate and nourishing luncheon for a day's motoring or boating, hiking or in the saddle.

To begin with here are a few sandwiches "don'ts":

DON'T try to use too fresh bread; at least twelve hours and better twenty-four should elapse after baking.

DON'T try to cut sandwich bread with a dull knife.

DON'T try to spread butter without first creaming it.

DON'T use a filling that may separate or become "runny."

DON'T use a filling that is dry, tough or tasteless.

SOME ARE HARDY

There are certain kinds of sandwiches that will endure several hours of packing and jolting and heat and still be palatable while others are ruined after an hour's standing. Meat sandwiches, plain cheese, olive and nut and a few other varieties are "hardy" and will stand much. But tomato sandwiches and most lettuce sandwiches, delicious as they are, are best served on the porch or in the garden.

A thin coating of butter should always be spread on both sides of a sandwich. The butter prevents the bread from absorbing the filling and adds much to the tastiness of the whole. Of course when a highly seasoned sandwich butter takes the place of a filling, other butter is not needed.

The Appleton Post-Crescent Offers to Its Readers a Moth Booklet.

In May the moth army advanced. Moths may be on the wing in steam-heated buildings in any month, but they are present in greatest abundance the country over from May to July and during September and October.

During these months they destroy thousands of dollars worth of property. They feed not only on clothing but also on carpets, rugs, and upholstered furniture. Moths can be controlled in any household by simple precautionary methods described in a government booklet, which the Washington Bureau of this paper has secured for distribution.

Read the advice of experts. Learn from this illustrated book the interesting story of this prime offender among fabric pests. Our Bureau will secure a copy of this booklet for any one who sends in four cents to cover the return postage and handling.

Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, The Appleton Post-Crescent Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith FOUR CENTS in stamps for a copy of the MOTH BOOKLET.

Women's New Hygiene

Ends disposal problem—Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND Registered Nurse

THE old-time sanitary pad has been supplanted by a new and better way called Kotex.

It ends the embarrassment of laundry and disposal. You discard Kotex as easily as tissue.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, and thus protects amazingly. You wear sheer gowns and gay frocks under the most trying conditions.

Also deodorizes, and thus ends all fear of offending. 8 in 10 better-class women now use it. Great hospitals employ it. Doctors widely urge it.

Most stores have Kotex on counters wrapped in plain paper, ready to be picked up without even asking.

Package contains 12. Be sure you get the genuine Kotex, for only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

No laundry—discard like tissue

"POSITIVE AGITATION" —the time-saver and work-saver

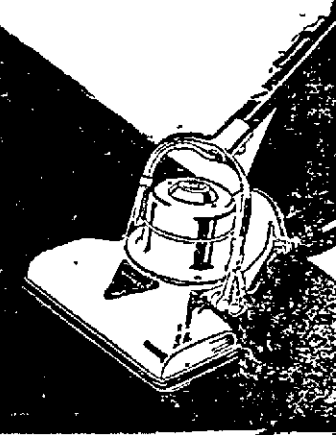

Think of the finest and most efficient vacuum cleaner you have ever seen.

Add to it a new principle, a plus advantage, which more than doubles its efficiency!

Now you have a rough idea of the immense advance accomplished in The New Hoover, through its revolutionary cleaning principle "Positive Agitation."

By reason of this exclusive principle The New Hoover cleans faster, easier, deeper—surpasses even the celebrated standard-design Hoover in these important particulars:

- 1 For the first time, it makes possible "Positive Agitation" of floor coverings.
- 2 By actual test, in the ordinary cleaning time, it beats out and sweeps up from carpeting an average of 13 1/2% more dirt.
- 3 It is an even greater rug-saver; the oftener a carpet is cleaned with a Hoover the longer that carpet will wear.
- 4 It is virtually service-proof; every part, including the new motor, requiring no oiling.
- 5 It increases the efficiency of its remarkable dusting tools because of its 50% stronger suction.
- 6 Its exclusive new bag is made of the most efficient dust- and germ-filtering cloth devised.
- 7 Its form and finish are of startling beauty; and every new feature insures even greater operating ease.

HONOR MEMORY OF APPLETON SOLDIER AT U. W. EXERCISE

Name of Elmer William Witt-huhn Is Sealed in Corner
Stone of Building

One Appleton war hero, who gave his life in service during the World War, Elmer William Witthuhn, brother of Lydia A. Witthuhn, 1895 S. Onondaga-st., was included in the list of 205 men whose memories were honored at the laying of the corner stone of the Memorial Union at the University of Wisconsin Monday morning.

Witthuhn's name was sealed in the corner stone along with those of 204 other World War and Civil War dead to whose memory the state Union building is to stand as an enduring tribute.

President Glenn Frank for the university, Lieutenant-Governor Elmer A. Huber for the state, Mayor A. G. Schmedemann for the city of Madison, Fred H. Clauson for the university alumni, and Lowell Frautschi of Madison, president of the Union Board, for the students spoke for their groups to the assemblage and to the Gold Star relatives who were honored guests at the ceremony.

The ceremony was held at the corner stone of the building, which is to be dedicated to the memory of the Union building, and the blowing of Taps and the firing of the National Salute.

The brief ceremony at the Union building was preceded by the parade and the services at Lincoln terrace on the upper university campus which hold a significant place in the patriotic ritual of the university and Madison.

The parade, with 23 civic and academic organizations in its line, arrived at the campus at 11 o'clock. The ceremony which followed ended with a pageant of 205 white-clad university women, each bearing a wreath and a metal plate with the name of one of the university's dead, to the corner stone box. Each placed in the box the plate she bore, then deposited the wreath at the foot of the Lincoln statue. The lines re-formed and the women led the procession to the Union building.

ARMY NEVER STARTS FIGHTS; ENDS THEM

Ralph M. Immell, Adjutant General, Addresses Reserve
Officers

Kenosha—The army never starts fights, it just finishes them, Ralph M. Immell, Adjutant General of Wisconsin, told Reserve Officers at their annual meeting here Saturday night.

"Unfortunately," General Immell continued, "the man who fights wars has no voice in the decisions that result in hostilities. I am certain that if the legislatures of all nations, or some higher agency could direct that in case of hostilities, the first line of defense would be composed of statesmen, congressmen, bankers, manufacturers, editors and propagandists, none of us would then devote time to questions of national defense."

"In such case, the hours you gentlemen put in studying and preparing to efficiently command troops in the field would be devoted to training yourselves as orators, parliamentarians, diplomats or money changers."

"I am unable to understand why any one would be opposed to the National Defense Act. It does not require compulsory service. It does not create a large standing army. It does not create a military caste that could, under the wildest flights of fancy, produce a situation provocative of war more than it could exercise the power of decision of declaring war."

"All the National Defense Act accomplishes is the organization and partial training of the able bodied men of the country, who are interested, so that they can strike a harder intelligent blow, with fewer casualties to their own organization."

"No man is particularly keen for war, least of all the man who is called upon to bear arms. Few men would be interested in military training if the possibility of their being in time of national emergency could be eliminated. It was my observation in the last war that the demand for unnecessary bloodshed, slaughter for revenge, for the annihilation of the enemy, and the desire to carry on until the last man who could strike a blow had been slain, grew in direct proportion to the distance the individual discussing the subject was from the scene of hostilities."

STAGE AND SCREEN

PERFECT PROFILES ARE SEEN TOGETHER

Fans all over the world will be glad to see the beautiful Mary Astor, again playing opposite John Barrymore, in "Don Juan," the gorgeous Warner picture now showing at the Fischer Theatre. And to all fans he it known that their urgent request that "The Two" be cast for the leading parts had much to do with the choice. (Mary Astor plays the star-like Adriana in "Don Juan.")

After the appearance of Warner's "Beau Brummel," in which Mary Astor was Barrymore's leading lady, hundreds of letters came from all parts of the world asking that they be again seen together.

The desire was further increased by the publicity photographs, posed with Barrymore as Paola and Astor as Francesca, when there was talk of their doing "Paola and Francesca." Possibly the beauty of these photographs had something to do with the selection of the Italian Renaissance as the background for "Don Juan"—the "Paola and Francesca" period.

Barrymore and Astor has admitted the most perfect profiles to be seen in pictures, and in "Don Juan" they make the perfect lovers of the world's dreams.

The picture was directed by Alan Crosland.

"ONE INCREASING PURPOSE"

"One Increasing Purpose," Fox Film's version of A. S. M. Hutchinson's greatest novel, had its first showing at the New Bijou Theatre Monday and was received with warm approval by the audience. This is one picture no one should miss.

The story is that of Sim Paris, played by Edmund Lowe, who has been hailed as the greatest actor of the screen, since his interpretation of "Sergeant Quirt" in "What Price Glory." Sim had a hundred miraculous escapes during battle until he has come to believe that his life has been spared for some "purpose." This is the vital theme of the story, logically developed by a cast of actors who include such screen favorites as Lila Lee, Holmes Herbert, May Allison, Huntley Gordon, Emily Fitzroy, Jane Novak, Josef Swikard, Lawford Davidson and others equally well known for their splendid work.

Many of the outdoor sequences were taken in England, and include scenes of rare rural beauty.

SECURE ROAD MAPS
FROM LEGISLATORS

Madison—(AP)—Highway maps, in past years mailed to buyers of automobile licenses in Wisconsin, are available this year through their representatives in the legislature.

Under a joint resolution, each assemblyman and senator was allowed 2,000 of the left-over maps after a bill had passed discontinuing the plan of providing them with the licenses. The resolution first read that the superintendent of public property was to mail the maps to lists of persons the legislators might give to him. The assembly however, concurred in a senate amendment to the resolution providing that the maps be delivered to the post office address of the legislators, thereby saving the state postage.

5 CASES ARE LISTED

PASTOR OUTLINES EARLY TRAILS OF INDIAN MISSION

Winnebago Indians Were Averse to Any Contact with Whites, He Shows

Milwaukee—(AP)—The early trails and final success of Bethany Indian Mission, Wittenberg, Wis., were told by T. M. Rykken, mission pastor in an address before the biennial convention of the Norwegian Lutheran church here Monday.

"The Winnebago Indians, among whom the work was first begun, and among whom it is now mainly carried out, were quite averse to a contact with the white," he said.

"The white man's attitude to the Indians in general tended to make them skeptical over all approaches of the whites. But the treatment the Winnebagoes of Wisconsin had received made them particularly averse."

"They dwelt on fertile lands near Oshkosh, some also in the fertile Thierpeau Valley. Reports were made to Washington, no doubt truthful, that the Winnebagoes were troubling the white settlers. It was nothing short of natural if they did, as the whites gradually encroached upon them, taking away from them their hunting grounds. In 1873 Congress made an appropriation for the removal of the Winnebago. And in 1873 the Wisconsin Winnebago were forcibly removed to their Nebraska reservation, many of them returned to the state."

"Some of the old Indians now living in the vicinity of Wittenberg recall this. Under a pretext of friendliness, the Winnebagoes were invited to Madison for a grand celebration. Some few chiefs, without authority, made a deal with the government, selling the fertile lands for 10 cents an acre. While the Indians who had arrived at Madison, whole families, and members of families, were enjoying their feast, the soldiers suddenly surrounded them up as they would cattle, boarded them on box cars and shipped them bodily to Nebraska. There was great lamentation and dissatisfaction over this, and many returned some perishing on the way. The government procured land for them in certain settlements, stony, swampy farms of 40 acres."

"For white men then to come and offer to establish a school for these people was something that they were greatly averse to."

"Thus, the first few years, 1884 to 1886, in the existence of the Bethany Indian Mission were years of slow progress, especially in getting the parents to consent to sending their children to school, and then again also, in keeping them there after they once had entered."

"At last, the first missionary, had three Winnebago children, and these would run away each night. Finally he had to solicit children of other tribes, until little by little the Winnebagoes began to have confidence in him. It was not until 1890 that they began to enroll. And even at that stage, the parents did not want any religious instruction to be given their children. Just reading and writing. They, themselves, would tend to the child's religious needs."

"However, the Gospel of Christ, and the love which the workers in the field, finally conquered."

"Our records show that classes have been baptized and classes confirmed each year from 1892 to the present time."

"The Gospel of Christ has again proven to be the greatest civilizing agency also among the Indians. Now, for years, the Bethany Mission has been beloved by the Indians. The fame of it is widespread among all Wisconsin Indians of all tribes. Children come from far and near, some as far away as 200 miles, who enter in the fall and do not see their parents again until spring. And applications are sent now, many more applying for advancement than we are in position to admit."

"A church was built in the settlement at Wittenberg in 1917. Here regular services are also held each Sunday. Several of those who have been confirmed at the Mission reside in this vicinity, and also a few of the old Indians who have never attended school. Some of these older ones have returned to the state."

Finger rolls in bakeries? We finger rolls in days like these. Since invitations have poured in. We finger rolls grown sadly thin!

FISHERMAN'S LUCK He met her at a mountain inn. This most attractive maid. He scarcely knew how to begin. For he was half afraid.

He wooed her in a distant way. Told her he'd made a wish. And hoped it might come true some day.

So thrice he kissed her 'neath the moon. And talked of Love, and Fate. Yes, THEY'LL be married very soon. You see, he changed the bait!

THE IMPRESSIONISTIC WRITER By F. P. Pitzer He was an impressionist!

He allowed things to be done to him and then wrote long treatises on his findings. For instance, once he allowed himself to be tortured by having pins stuck into his body and then wrote his impressions. "How a Pin-Cushion Feels When Used."

At another time he sat in a pan on a red-hot stove and then wrote his impressions on "How an Egg Feels While It's Frying."

Only last month, when the doctor told him he had gastric, he swallowed a twenty-five cent piece and then wrote, in an impressionistic way, "How a Meter Feels When You Drop a Quarter Into It."

But the height of impressionism was reached when he called on the jail warden and asked him to "burn" him in the electric chair, because he wanted to write his impressions of "How an Electric Light Bulb Feels When You Turn on the Electric Light."

Readers are invited to contribute. All humor — epigrams (or humorous mottoes), jokes, anecdotes, poetry, burlesques, satires and bright sayings of children — must be original and hitherto unpublished. Accepted material will be paid for at the rate of $1 to $10 per contribution and from 25 cents to $1 per line for poetry according to its character and value in the judgment of the editor. Unaccepted contributions cannot be returned. All manuscripts must be written on one side of the paper only and should be addressed Appleton Post-Crescent.

100% AMERICAN MORE OR LESS

(How this 100% Percenter reached THE FUN SHOP Joke Factory?) "Do you know," began James Veit, "the girl I marry must have personality, poise, intelligence, background, good looks; in fact she's got to be 100%."

"Well," said Abraham Lowenstein, "for cash I'd suppose there'd be a little bit off?"

"No," replied James, "I wouldn't take a girl even a little bit off!"

A NUDE DEPARTURE "I got a new girl from Milwaukee," said Old Man Gunterson. "I met Miss Saun-son today, and she certainly is a peach. She's smart, carries herself well, and is a handsome woman. Measured by a percentage scale, she'd be 100%."

"Huh," granted Mrs. Gunterson, for a very cat-like manner, "and she looks every year of it!"

JEALOUSY RAMPANT "Do you know, my dear?" began Old Man Gunterson. "I met Miss Saun-son today, and she certainly is a peach. She's smart, carries herself well, and is a handsome woman. Measured by a percentage scale, she'd be 100%."
